real me, which contains a motor worker recognition by wives:
Two years age a card was brought into my music-room, bearing the name of a well-known and fashionable married lady. When she was ushered in I was surprised When she was ushered in I was surprised to see so young a looking woman, though, to be sure, she is not yet forty, and a fair complexion and clear blue eyes make her look younger. She seemed a little embarrassed, but asked me to try her voice. I did so, and found it uncultivated, but was singularly fresh and sweet; in quality a light soprana. I told her so, and her face flushed eagerly as she asked:

IT WAS HIS WIFE.

Professor, could you teach me to sing?" . "Yes," I replied, "if you choose to apply yourself earnestly."
"I will, and if you can manage it so that I need not be seen, and that no one knows of it, I will take a lesson every

CALL AND EXAMINE.

The most spending many of his evenings with her.

At heart devoted to his wife, he was unconscious of his gradual neglect of her, and would have been astonished had she resented his enjoyment of these musical tete-a-tetes. About the widow I am not prepared to speak. Mrs. R., like a nice woman, did not resent it, but undermined the enemy, as you will see. Her music lessons she kept a profound secret from her family. In the summer they went, as usual, to Saratoga, and took possession of one of the pretty cottages at the United States Hotel.

The morning after their arrival the local newspaper contained a notice that the leading soprano of the Episcopal Church was ill with a throat affection, and the congregation was asked to make due allowance for the disabiled choir. The next morning, Sunday, Mr. R., with two of the children, wended his way to the church of his belief, Mrs. R. having excused herself on the plea of a head-ache.

After the opening service, the minister announced that "a lady from New York had kindly volunteered to sing in place had kindly volunteered to sing in place of the sick soprano, and in consequence the musical service would be the same as usual." A few moments later a clear, sweet voice rang through the church, touched the hearts of the people, perhaps, even more through the exquisite axpression and feeling which the music had rendered than the qualities of the voice itself. Mr. R. was fascinated, delighted, and inwardly made comparisons between it and the witching widow not flattering to the latter. After the servfishering to the latter. After ices were over he eagerly sought the min-ister to ascertain the name of the charming soprano, whose face he had not been able to see from his seat.

"Come with me and I will introduce you," said the minister, who knew Mr. R. by reputation. They entered the choir together, and the good man began, "Miss Brown, permit me to introduce when he was interrupted by Mr. R. when he was interrupted by hir. he ejaculating, "Great heavenst it is my wife!" And, place and company, not-withstanding, he gave a hearty embrace in his delight and surprise. To cut the story short, he fell in love with her all over again, the singing siren was forgot-ten, and I don't believe you can find a happier couple in this great city. To mark the occasion, Mr. R. gave his wife magnificent set of diamonds, which she wears with a great deal of pride. All of which is true.

AT THE close of the war the people of the United States had to be taxed $4.20 per capita annually, to pay the interest on the public debt; now a tax of $1.56 head is the annual burder

An Angel Fish Caught.

An angel fish, said to be the first ever An angel fish, said to be the first even brought to this city, was caught with a hook and line by some Italian fishermen twenty miles outside of Farallon Islands in very deep water, brought into the city and sold to an enterprising tobacco dealer on Montgomery street, where it was hung up in the window to excite the wonderment of passers-by. The specimen is about three and a half feet long, has a head as large as a man's, beneath which are a pair of wing-like fins, spreading out over two feet from tip to tip, from the lower extremity of the wings—they are much more like wings than fins—and the body tapers off to a wings—they are much more like wings than fins—and the body tapers off to a small tail. The back of the fish is a dark gray and brownish color, slightly mottled and studded with sharp, thornlike protuberances. The under side of the fish presents a most curious appearance, being colored and shaped from the neck down the entire body like a human hads. The thory is riburarked and body. The thorax is rib-marked and the abdomen is singularly man-like, and the resemblance to the human organization is very remarkable. The novelty and rarity of the specimen drew to the store where it is exhibited a number of Charles Wolcott Brooks informed the Call reporter sent to make the fish's acquaintance that the one brought in by the Italians is a very rare specimen. It has heretofore been scientifically classed, but not generally known as a personal acquaintance, so to say, by even the most favored few. Mr. Brooks stated that the squatina, speaking of it in a friendly manner, is a habitue of very deep water, where it pursues the very pleasant pastime of feeding ou flounders and soles. Unlike San Francisco bon vivantes the squatina is never forced to accept a slice of sturgeon for a sole and pay two bits for it. Yet the sqantina appears capable of mastering even a whole sturgeon, having a true fissure mouth fracturing its enormous head from the two joints where its ears should have been set. - San Francisco Call.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—In the Christiancy divorce suit the testimony of ex Senator Christiancv is being taken. Several important letters have been put in evidence, among them a long letter written by Christiancy, Aug. 18, 1878, to his wife's father, John W. Lugenbeel, with regard to Mrs. Christiancy's alleged oad conduct. Christiancy says he endeavored, carefully and scrupulously, to convince her that she ought not to marry him, and insisted many times that she should reconsider the matter. He admitted that he loved her and said if, after full and mature consideration, she still wished to marry him, he would consent. She declared she still wished him to make her his wife, and he had only one course to take. On the morning of the wedding she heard of the return of James Lugenbeel and ful Boston; more than double that of fainted. When they reached Philadelphia and were alone, she told him she had been engaged to Lugenbeel, Cincinnati, and nearly equal that of that the engagement had been brokdeeply she loved him until his name was mentioned. She said she had perjured herself in her marriage vows, that she was miserable and wanted a divorce forthwith. Soon after this, Frank Anderson became attentive to her and her affections > again came a frenzy for divorce. Af ter she returned home in August, 1876, her love for Anderson broke out afresh and her hatred for her husband increased. She also had a fondness for Samuel Register, of Baltimore, and for one Mayer. She often said she wished her husband dead and that he was all that stood between her and happiness. When she wrote him she taunted him with being old, did not pretend to love him, said she would spend all the money she wanted to, she would run him in debt, and she wanted a divorce. Her husband replied that he ruined in the way she proposed.

HURD A FREE MAN. On yesterday foremoon the case of The People against Uel E. Hurd, indicted for perjury in making an alleged false affidavit at the office of the clerk of Macon county, to secure a certificate to wed Lucy Ports. When he alleged was 18 years of Porter, whom he alleged was 18 years O'clock. The jury was out nearly 24 hours, and failing to agree, this morning Judge Smith discharged them. Thereupon States Attorney Johns entered a nolle in the case, and the prisoner, who has been in custody since the 4th day of last January, was discharged. Mr. Hurd at once embraced his mother and sister, who had been waiting anxiously for the verdict, and the trio left the court room soon afterward. The jury on last evening stood nine for acquittal and three for ing stood nine for acquittal and three for conviction. This morning the jury stood eleven for acquittal and one for conviction, and the "eleven contrary men" could not be brought over to look at the case as did the lonely one. At the trial of this case at the December term of court the jury failed to agree, and since then Hurdles been unjuried of the county iail.

ASSUMING SHAPE. The Close Communion by Telephone Ad-

Some months ago, it will be remempered, the REPUBLICAN started the boom in favor of connecting cities and towns in central Illinois by telephone, and a great number of neighboring newspapers seconded the motion strongly. The agita- ded novelty. The menagerie is the most tion has commenced to bear fruit. The following announcement was made in the Springfield Post of last evening; and we hope that the efforts of the gentleman named will be crowned with success:

Mr. Z. P. Hotchkiss, the manager of the Springfield branch of the Central Telephone exchange, has undertaken an enterprise which, it successful, will prove highly beneficial to the business men of Springfield, and therefore deserves prompt Springment and a liberal support. Should proper encouragement be given, Mr. Hotohkiss proposes to construct telephone lines on seven railroads leading out of Springfield, thus connecting this city with the towns on these roads in va-Pana, Lincoln, Litchfield, Decatur and Petersburgh, and the intermedi-ate points. The advantages which will accrue from establishing such a medium of communication between Springfield business men and the business men of those tributary towns—virtually annihilating space, so that they may carry on a ness as if in adjoining rooms—can scarce by be overestimated. In order to justify he expenditure of the number of thous ands of dollars necessary in building each of these proposed lines, the company ask a guarantee from Springfield citizens o a certain amount of patronage in the way of a purchase of a given number of tick-ets, each of which will entitle the holder to a five minutes conversation over the wire; and the price of these tickets will vary, according to the distance, from fitteen to twenty-five cents.

THE perpetration of a daring daylight burglary at the residence of Mr. Samuel Gher, on the corner of South Edward and Main streets, has just come to light. The bold deed was committed during Tuesday, the burglar entering through the front door, which stood open, and while Mrs. Gher was at the rear attending to her household duties, the thief went up stairs and went through trunks and bucaus, but he got away with only a boy's new suit of clothes and Mr. Gher's revolver which he had let in his wife's trunk. No clew to the thief.

FRANK FAWSETT, aged 15 years, the son of a stock dealer, met with a frightful death at Illiopolis last evening. He and a lad named Johnson, were on top of stock cars, which young Fawsett's father was loading with cattle. The cars had been filled and were being switched off the sidetrack to the main track, when the accident occurred. The jar threw the two boys off the car and Fawsett fell across the rail and was cut in two. Johnson fell between the rails, and having the presence of mind to lay close to the ground, the cars passed over him without his receiving any injury whatever.

Another Factory for Decatur. Each passing year is adding to the im portance of Decatur as one of the leading manufacturing and commercial cities in Illinois, which self-evident fact is certain ly most gratifying to property owners and our people generally. The new factory to be established here in a few weeks will be at the corner of South Franklin and Priest streets, near the Illinois Central railroad, and will be conducted by "The Warren & Durfee Manufacturing Company." The material for the construction of the new one-story frame building which will be 40x100 feet in dimensions with a large basement, will, with the ma chinery, cost in the neighborhood of $20, 000. The new enterprise in which the com pany will embark will be that of making modern butter trays, and other noveltie in such general use among grocer throughout the country. The gum wood for the manufacuture of the articles will be brought here from southern Illinois and Indiana, and will be put in proper shape by machinery which is now being made to order at Indianapolis, Ind. The company will give employment to a large humber of young women and boys. East of the new factory will be a side-track, which will afford the company splendid News has been received in Decatur of the death of Hon. Z. S. Swan, brother of Mrs. James C. Lake, of this city, which took place at his home in Champaign, Ill., on yesterday at noon. The immediate cause of his death was congestion of the lungs. The deceased was in the 43d year of his age and was a native of the state of Ohio. During the war he served his country as a Captain in a Wisconsin regiment. He was a member of the Illinois Legislature from Fayette county in 1872. Subsequently he removed from Vandalia to Champaign and read law in the office of Judge C. B. Smith, with whom he was afterwards associated in the practice of his profession. The deceased leaves a widow and one child.

The Circus. The most complete and reliable of the circuses to visit this city this season, is that of Batcheller & Doris, which exhibits here on Monday, May 29th. Batcheller & Doris' Great Inter-Ocean circus, menagerie and museum, in reality a half largest and most complete traveling, and o'clock. has everywhere met with flattering ovaions, the immense tent often being too small to hold the people. The secret of this success lies in the efforts of the managers to present to the public the most complete show possible. In the circus only the best artists of both the old and new world appear and each act is a decicomplete in every detail, many of the animals being the only ones of the kind in captivity. In its museum Miss Millie Christine, the wonderful "Two-Headed Nightingale," is the bright particular star. Scientists have designated her as the "Eighth Wonder of the World." CHEAP GOODS are the result of judicious purchases from first hands, and the largest sales with the least expense. That we have attained this end is a pretty well established fact. And though we call attention in our advertisements to special articles, there are no departments and no articles in departments, from the smallest to the largest, that will not bear the same scrutiny. We hold that merchants are as had lost all his friends, had his house much bound to adhere to the truth in burned down and business destroyed, their advertisements as farmers or mejust make up your mind that he either chanics in their business transactions; and that misrepresentations are resorted The best thing you can do for such a woe-begone individual is to advise him to purpose of deceiving the plain unsuspecting class, who can least afford the deception, which robs them of their dues. Also an infallible remedy for pimples and blotches on the face. Only 50 cents a prices, so that the most experienced merchants find it difficult to determine values; and the seeming artlessness which invests the ordinary buyer, or the "intelligent public" with a knowledge of merchandise, that nine merchants in ten do not possess, may be very flattering in-deed, but this observation is only made to full persons into security in order to practice a still greater deception. There is no law to punish dealers for represent-ing their purchases as coming direct from ing their purchases as coming direct from importers and manufacturers, when the facts are against them. Nor for giving special reasons for marking down goods, after six weeks untiring labor, two hindred facts are seen as the misrepresentations on paper will do so over the counter; consequently to show courtesy where it does not belong, or to affect a regard for the integrity of all competitors might seem very magnanimous were it not for were the megraphy of are competents improve the megraphic evidences to the contrary.
